RPM - the original pSARM

RPM represents a leap forward in pre-workout supplementation. Instead of just blowing your head off with a list of stimulants as long as your arm, RPM helps to provide you with the energy and mental focus to tear apart the gym as though your life depended on it. By modulating the key hormones responsible for strength, RPM can help you break through plateaus and can give you the energy you need to train at your maximum even after a long day

DRIVE - High Performance Gear

Drive takes RPM and turns it up to 11! A versatile performance enhancer, Drive is designed to help your body function at its absolute peak. Its main function is to boost testosterone which can result in greater strength, faster recovery, better mood, improved sexual performance and fat loss. Whether combined with RPM, or used on its own, Drive is a powerful tool to have in your arsenal and can help you make the gains you strive to achieve!

HGHUP - Radical GH Amplifier

Thought you couldn't increase growth hormone with a supplement? Think again!

HGHup is one of the most revolutionary cutting edge supplements on the market today. Traditionally, if you wanted to increase your GH levels you had to take the hormone itself via an injection. Let's face it, not everyone wants to go down that route. But everyone does want to reap the benefits increased GH can yield..... greater muscle size, increased strength growth of brand new muscle fibers, superior endurance, and quicker fat loss! Through its synergistic blend of cutting edge ingredients, HGHup can cause rapid and large increases in circulating GH through two main actions: First by providing the stimulus to produce more GH, but more importantly, by preventing the actions that reduce this production to begin with. Applied Nutraceuticals are so confident in HGHup that a human study was performed and showed a 2379% increase in circulating GH, that's over 20 times more GH! (see www.appliednutraceuticals.com for the full lab report)
